

C. A. Armitage, manager of Hope Chamber of Commerce, advises me that on March 20 he sent the following letter to the Bureau of the Census, Washington, D. C.: "I am enclosing a news clipping from the Arkansas Gazette of February 21 and an editorial from the Hope Star of February 25 concerning a statement by Mr. M. D. Swenson, District Supervisor of the Census, Fayetteville, Ark., to the effect that college students enrolled in the University located in Fayetteville will this year be counted as residents of Fayetteville, rather than of their home town.

"This office would appreciate your advising as to the authenticity of Mr. Swenson's statement. The local families having students enrolled in the University, as well as many of the students themselves, are not in sympathy with the idea of such students being considered as citizens of the cities where Universities they may be attending are located.

"Such a procedure would be a radical departure from the past and there seems to be no logical reason for such a change.

"The statement is not true, we would appreciate notification so that steps may be taken to adequately arouse the local people to prevent such a change in procedure."

Thanks are due J. Pat Duffie for calling the local community's attention to this matter, for it was Pat who told me about it when I had missed reading it in Arkansas Gazette — and who went back and dug up a clipping. When the census comes around, every ten years, you find some citizens who are alert and ready to do a good job for their community. In this case it was Pat Duffie. In the 1930 census it was the late Mark Smyth who, when the preliminary report showed Hope to have a population just under 6,000 went out and organized committees and located persons the enumerators had missed — and got the figure confirmed at 6,008.

Oaklawn Sewer District Bonds Sold

Oaklawn Sewer District revenue bonds in the amount of $115,000 and bearing 2.75 per cent interest were sold last night to the W. R. Stevens Investment Company by the Hope City Council.

In the agreement the investment company will pay all expenses, including printing, trustee, attorney's fees, making the bonds callable in inverse order and converting them to lower coupons.

The bonds will mature in 25 years. The city will collect $1 per month sewage fee from property owners of the north Hope addition for a period of 25 years.

The T. J. Rainey Investment Company, the only other bidder, made an offer of 2.87 per cent interest on the $115,000 deal.

Albert Graves, representing property owners, appeared before the council in objection to an application for permit by Feeders Supply Co. to erect a building on the firm's old location. The building formerly occupied by the supply house was destroyed by fire earlier this year.

The petitioners asked the council to refuse a building permit on the grounds that such a building would be unsanitary, and a nuisance to the neighborhood because of rats, flies, mosquitoes, dust and chaff from feed grinding.

Feeders Supply had no representative at the meeting and the council delayed action.

The annual city audit to be made in April was awarded to McDuffie-Curry Co. of Little Rock for a fee of $1,000.

R. C. Campbell asked extension of an electrical line on old Highway 67. No action was taken, pending a survey.

A resolution was passed authorizing the mayor and city clerk to accept from the Third District Livestock Association a ten year promissory note in the sum of $21,000 bearing 5 per cent interest and secured by a first mortgage on a new exhibit building and arena now under construction at Fair Park.

The First and Citizens banks of Hope loaned the $21,000 to the stock association under the condition that the loan was backed by the City of Hope.

A 3-way stop light was ordered placed at Third and Washington streets.

The council passed an ordinance to vacate and abandon an alley running north and south in the south half of Block 31 in the city.

Jersey Breeders to Meet Here

Jersey cattle breeders of this area of Arkansas will meet as a group at the Hempstead County Courthouse this Friday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock. Joe Elcan, Jersey breeder of Waldo and Arkansas Jersey Cattle Club Board member for this area, will preside. J. E. Lightie, Jr. of Scarcey, Secretary of the Arkansas Jersey organization will be in attendance.

Jersey type and production, the theme of the Friday afternoon meeting, will be of interest to breeders of grade and registered animals. D. T. Simmons, the field representative for the American Jersey Cattle club, and A. Leon Holley or T. P. Head, Arkansas Extension Service dairy specialist, will appear on the program.

Hempstead county active Jersey breeders include Clayborn J. Rowe, Lacie Rowe, Audrey Wilson, Carl Brown, Experiment Station, Vernon Brown, Lester Brown, Glenn Eley, J. M. Brown, M. J. Copeland, C. M. Cox, R. J. Foster, Garland Kidd, Odell Luck, Donald V. Moore, Clarence Ellen, Norman Moore, Larry Moses, and 4-H club members Richard Lynn Hunt, Donald Ray Brown, Miria Ann Brown, Kenneth Dale Sinyard, Joe Rowe, James Hutson, Burrel Joe Smittle, and James Toner.

The average cow in our area produces around 167 pounds butter fat per year. This 167 pounds just about pays the costs. The production goal suggested in the County Agricultural Program of Work is 250 pounds butterfat per year advises Oliver L. Adams, county agent, in encouraging dairy producers to attend the Friday afternoon Jersey Cattle Club gathering.

Not Certain Man Can Make H-Bomb

Pasadena, Calif., March 22 — (AP) is not at all certain that man can prize winning scientist, says he is not at all certain that man can make a hydrogen bomb.

He is frankly skeptical that any man-made device will ever split the earth asunder.

But it is true, he says, "that we and our possible adversary now possess the instruments to destroy each other."

Millikan is 82 today. In an interview commemorating the occasion, the man who first isolated and measured the electron and opened the way for present day atomic research observed:

"With all the talk about the hydrogen bomb, I'm not yet convinced that it's at all certain we can build such a bomb. Of course, if it were possible to make the hydrogen in all the seas combine at once into helium, we probably could explode the whole earth and transform it into a nebula.

"However, I'm still skeptical. I think it would take a warmer lady than mother earth to make such a horror possible."

Millikan, at 82, is known as the "billion volt sparkplug" of the California Institute of Technology. Although he "retired" as chairman of the school's executive council in 1945, he still maintains a pace that would kill many a younger man. For instance: only three years ago he traveled several thousand miles by truck on a cosmic ray expedition which started in Texas and wound up in Canada. His only complaint on this trip was that he couldn't "get the kids away early enough." The "kids" were professors half his age.

Even now Millikan maintains regular office hours and makes flying trips over the country to keep speaking engagements. Since retiring he has completed his soon to be published autobiography and kept up with his duties as vice president of the Caltech board of trustees.

How will he spend his birthday? He addresses the faculty of Fresno, Calif., State college at noon, then flies back here to attend a dinner party.

With the wisdom of a man who has watched his country recover from Civil War (he was born in 1868) and grow into the strongest nation in the world, Millikan observes:

"We may be lost if we fail to maintain the American way of life against socialist trends which threaten our personal freedom."

Second White Man Given Life Sentence

Kosciuski, Miss., March 22 — (AP) — A 38-year-old white man was sentenced to life imprisonment last night in the massacre of three Negro children.

Leon Turner, a former convict, was convicted of the murder of four-year-old Ruby Nell Harris last Jan. 8. The jury of 12 white men, eight of them farmers, was unable to agree on punishment in Mississippi law. It was mandatory for Judge J. P. Coleman to sentence Turner to life imprisonment.

The state had asked the death penalty — rare punishment in Mississippi for a white man convicted of murdering a Negro.

The jury deliberated almost four hours.

There was no demonstration by the audience of about 800 whites and Negroes when the verdict was read.

Judge Coleman announced he would re-convene court this morning. A decision was expected on whether Turner would face trial on two other murder indictments against him.

These bills accuse him of the slaying of two other Negro children at the same time that Ruby Nell was murdered. They were Mary Burnside, 8, and Frankie Thurman, 12.

Windol Whitt, 25, was also convicted of the murder of Ruby Nell. As in the Turner case, the jury was unable to agree on punishment, and the court sentenced Whitt to life imprisonment. Whitt's counsel said they would appeal. Scheduled to be tried Monday in the same case is Windol Whitt's 27-year-old brother, Malcolm. Windol was convicted Thursday.

The Whitt brothers, like Turner, also are accused in the slayings of the Burnside girl and the Thurman boy.

At Windol's trial, the Whitt brothers testified that Turner, armed with a 38-caliber pistol, was the trigger-man in the midnight raid on the home of Thomas Harris, Negro sharecropper. Harris, 27, father of Ruby Nell and stepfather of the other two children, was shot in the back and paralyzed. Another stepchild, Verline Thurman, 14, was wounded. Harris' wife, clutching an infant, fled.

At Turner's trial, Turner testified the three white men went to the Harris home to sell some whiskey and Harris "tried to grab my gun and we started tussling" and "the gun went off real fast."

Texarkana May Get Few Students From Hempstead

Texarkana — The Miller county school board has voted to take in a small tract of land in Hempstead county involving about a dozen students. The action is subject to approval of the Hempstead Board of Education.

The land is a small tract between Old River and Red River. The former Simms school was located there and a river shift isolated the school from Hempstead and students started going to Texarkana.

The Hervey District then was in existence and was taken over by the Texarkana District.

Bulletins

Washington, March 22 — (AP) — Little immediate change in federal control policy was foreseen today despite a congressional outpour of funds requested to run the program.

Whether there will be any federal controls after July 1, however, remained in doubt.

Washington, March 22 — (AP) — The house and the senate were apart by one billion dollars cash today in their plans for European aid spending next year.

Lincoln, Nebr., March 22 — (AP) — The Brannan agriculture plan was compared to the "old shell game" reduction was accounted for mainly by a spreading over a long period funds to complete major projects, notably the huge Bull Shoals dam, where the proposed new annual appropriations was cut $4,000,000.

North Cumberland, R. I., March 22 — (AP) — A fierce $2,000,000 fire wrecked four buildings of the half century old Cistercian community of Our Lady of the Valley last night.

Poll Spells Defeat for Housing

Washington, March 22 — (AP) — A spot poll indicated today that almost half of President Truman's own party members in the house may vote against his $2,000,000,000 co-op housing program for middle-income families.

Of over 100 Democrats checked by a backer of the proposal, the score for and against the bill was just about even. Several were non-committal.

Republicans probably will line up almost solidly against the co-op idea, and, unless there is a sudden shift in Democratic opposition ranks, it is bound to be defeated.

The house go policy committee has voted unanimously to oppose it.

President Truman personally interceded in an effort to head off defeat from his Key West, Fla., vacation quarters. He wired Chairman Spence (D-Ky) of the house ranking committee urging favorable house action.

The senate struck co-op housing from its bill last week, on a 48 to 38 vote. The administration apparently feels that if the house approves the idea the senate might follow suit.

There were no immediate indications whether Mr. Truman's personal efforts will build up any more house strength.

Leaders talked of possible compromise.

Little Change in Chrysler Walkout

Detroit, March 22 — (AP) — The Chrysler strike, now in its ninth week, was reported only slightly nearer settlement today after the first major peace moves since the walkout.

The company and the CIO United Auto Workers swapped settlement proposals in an action-packed bargaining session last night.

Says Red Spies Trained to U. S. Contacts

Washington, March 22 — (AP) — Senator McCarthy (R-Wis) was reported today to have told senate committee hunters he believes the FBI trailed four Soviet spy suspects to contacts with an American he accuses of heading an espionage ring.

McCarthy's reported testimony came in a closed session of a senate foreign relations subcommittee. Democrats said he had thus far produced no primary evidence.

The Wisconsin senator was said to have agreed there that his accusations that the state department is harboring Communists largely will stand or fall on this case.

The individual involved was identified by McCarthy as an affiliate of the state department. He furnished the name of a man to the subcommittee at yesterday's closed session.

May Slash Arkansas River Funds

Little Rock, March 22 — (AP) — Arkansas river planners are unhappy about the attitude of the house appropriations committee toward the stream.

The committee said in Washington yesterday it wasn't committing itself for $765,000,000 which U. S. engineers estimate will be the cost of an overall program for development of the river and its tributaries in Arkansas and Oklahoma.

The program, designed for fulfillment over a period of years, would embrace flood control, navigation and hydro-electric power.

The committee made its statement in eliminating altogether one $600,000 flood control project near Morrilton and in trimming an $850,000 budget recommendation for current bank stabilization along the Arkansas to $500,000 and restricting the work to below Little Rock.

For the state as a whole the committee cut the $25,570,000 budget request to $19,150,000, a reduction of $6,420,000. The state wide reduction was accounted for mainly by a spreading over a long period funds to complete major projects, notably the huge Bull Shoals dam, where the proposed new annual appropriations was cut $4,000,000.

So, Mr. Levy sat in the back of his store and read amid the fine things he had brought to Terrell.

"When friends came to Terrell," said Mrs. Ben Wilson, who's lived here all her life, "we took them to see the state mental hospital, the Texas Military college and the Texas State — the finest store between Shreveport and Dallas."

"He hadn't bought much new stock in the past 15 years," Rousseaux said. "Occasionally he'd go on the bus to Dallas and come back with a little box of merchandise under his arm."

Mrs. Heart Enjoying Better Health

Oklahoma City, March 22 — (AP) — The doctors were wrong — Mrs. Heart is alive today, and "living to the fullest."

The $10,000 the unidentified Oklahoma City widow rationed herself last March for the year doctors said would be her last is almost gone.

But...

"I was ready to give up before," says the woman who was told a heart condition would kill her in 12 months. "But it's different now. There are so many things I really want to do, and places I want to go."

Mrs. Heart says her health is better, and she's convinced she has a future.

"I have learned to live for each day," she says. "It's a wonderful thing—a precious thing—that has happened to me."

Mrs. Heart says she gave hundreds of dollars away. None of the money, though, went to persons who wrote her for financial aid.

"Those who really need help seldom ask for it," she says. "They are the one I like to help — the people I come in contact with personally. I can see their needs, and it's wonderful to be able to do something for them, and to do it anonymously if you can."

The letters — some 20,000 of them — came to the Oklahoma City Daily Oklahoman after she appeared at the newspaper office, told her story, and frankly asked for help.

Mrs. Heart said she had been so occupied with making money that she hadn't learned how to enjoy it. And she wanted the year which was to be her final one "completely enjoyable."

The newspaper, pledged to secrecy, agreed to ask its readers for advice.

"I have filled a book with notes I took from those letters," she says. "Especially the letters from doctors telling me I had no reason to give up hope. And from people who had lived long past the time they were given to die."

Mrs. Heart traveled. Later she sought additional medical advice.

And now she has become interested in Christian Science — "it's meant more to me than anything."

"I've a self-confidence that I never had before in my life," Mrs. Heart adds.

Forrest City Votes for Parking Meters

Forrest City, March 22 — (AP) — Forrest City residents have voted for installation of parking meters and for a Municipal court.

The vote at a special election yesterday was: Meters for 389; against 255; Municipal court for 344; against 308.

Seventeen other Arkansas cities have approved the meters. The state capital, Little Rock, has twice rejected them, the second time a week ago.

Collection of Lifetime Sold at Auction

By MARTHA COLE

Torrell, Tex., March 22 — (AP) — The glory of the 1890's was there — held in the hand of an auctioneer.

They sold most of the stock that I. Levy had started collecting more than half a century ago.

He put it all in his store in Terrell, a small North Texas town among the cotton fields — dam-silks from China high button shoes, handkerchiefs, linen shirts for men, imported woollens, hand painted buttons.

Hundreds came yesterday to the old two-story store to stand among the crumbling gingerbread work and listen to the chatter of the auctioneer — J. B. Mosley of Terrell.

The high school girls bought high button shoes and put them on. Their mothers bought old lace and linen dresses to wear to the square dances.

And they bought whalebone corsets. Some said they were just for a souvenir. But others said they would wear them — "they give you a wonderful figure."

I. Levy 71 years old, died two years ago. His store had been closed since then, until they opened it up last week and started digging into the dusty old boxes and dusty shelves.

"Mr. Levy was a little man, but he was dignified and a pretty stylish dresser in his day," said Claude Rousseaux of Terrell. "But he got old and wasn't feeling to well."

So, Mr. Levy sat in the back of his store and read amid the fine things he had brought to Terrell.

"When friends came to Terrell," said Mrs. Ben Wilson, who's lived here all her life, "we took them to see the state mental hospital, the Texas Military college and the Texas State — the finest store between Shreveport and Dallas."

"He hadn't bought much new stock in the past 15 years," Rousseaux said. "Occasionally he'd go on the bus to Dallas and come back with a little box of merchandise under his arm."

Barber Admits Bloody Slaying

Terre Haute, Ind., March 22 — (AP) — A slender, graying barber who told police he was too little to carry the body of a big man admitted last night the butcher slaying of a window washer.

Detective Clint Seward said 58-year-old Clarence Taylor broke down after 12 hours of questioning and between sobs told a grisly tale of how he killed George Walis Baldwin, 54.

The police detective said Taylor related that he killed Baldwin with shots from a 38-caliber pistol in his downtown barber shop the night of March 13.

"I did it — I'll tell everything," Seward quoted Taylor as saying, adding that the slight-statured barber blamed the shooting on an argument over a pretty young woman.

The woman, identified as 19-year-old Mrs. Goldie Juanita Wilson of Dresser, a community across the Wabash river from Terre Haute, was held without charge for questioning.

The detective said Mrs. Wilson admitted being present when the shooting occurred. He said she apparently knew that Taylor three days after the shooting saw the body in half and dumped it in Flossmore, Ill., a suburb of Chicago.

Seward said the girl made an oral statement saying Taylor had made plans through the day to kill Baldwin when he came to the barber shop that night and then rob him of a large amount of currency Taylor was known to carry.

Baldwin, an eccentric who was known for his distrust of banks, often carried as much as $1,000 stuffed into snap-type purses in his pockets. He operated a one-man window washing agency in Terre Haute and stamped all of his currency with the name and address of his business.

Detective Seward said Taylor admitted taking about $1,000 from Baldwin's body immediately after the shooting.

It was the tracing of large amounts of these bills spent in Terre Haute and Chicago that led to Taylor's arrest early yesterday, Seward added.

New Slashes Proposed on Money Bill

Washington, March 22 — (AP) — A new cut of from two to three billion dollars in an omnibus $22,000,000,000 appropriation bill was proposed today by Rep. Taber of New York.

Top Republican on the house appropriations committee, Taber called upon all members of congress who "want to support a balanced budget" to join him in chopping down the bill's total.

Chairman Cannon (D-Mo) of the committee retorted that he doesn't see how such a cut as that proposed by Taber can be made "in view of our obligations at home and abroad."

Cannon pointed out that the $22,045,030,124 bill financing nearly all federal activities except foreign aid for the next fiscal year already has been cut by the committee from $26,419,330,000. A reduction of $1,567,000,000. That's almost 6 per cent.

On the basis of the committee action and the President's estimate of revenues next year the federal deficit for the fiscal year beginning July 1 would be $4,153,682,312.

Taber hopes to reduce that to around $2,000,000,000 through cuts he wants the house to impose on the omnibus bill when it starts considering it next week.

The big annual allotment in the omnibus appropriation bill is $19,915,127,300 for national defense. The appropriations committee has chopped the defense budget by more than $200,000,000 and said that is all that could be safely trimmed.

Largest other items are $4,801,782,795 for veterans' administration spending and almost a billion for the atomic energy commission. These two, along with national defense, have long been regarded as "untouchable."

Taber's plan of action, he says, will be to try to return the bill to the appropriations committee with instructions to slash $2,000,000,000 more money, perhaps as much as several billion dollars.

He voted against approving the bill in committee yesterday, saying that it "was too big."

Taber said he is now going to take positive action to cut the national debt, now around $200,000,000.

"Our people are being taxed beyond endurance," he said in a statement, "and we are headed for uncontrolled inflation and bankruptcy unless a brake is put on necessary spending."

Taber said his cutting proposal when the bill comes up for house vote will "permit the people to go on record on the question of whether they want to support a balanced budget."

Peace Plan Submitted by UN Head

Washington, March 22 — (AP) — Trygve Lie, secretary-general of the United Nations, proposed a year-long "pause" to relax international tensions, and "bring the cold war to a halt."

Calling for periodic meetings of "foreign ministers or even heads of governments" to discuss controversial issues, Lie said in a statement:

"I do not think the world is safely taking the first steps on this road of negotiation and conc

Congress to Vote One Bill for First Time

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington, March 22 — (P) — For the first time in its history, congress this year will take a crack at voting a one-package appropriation bill.

This is an attempt to avoid the kind-of-mess congress has made in the past. You have a stake in the outcome and for this reason, the four tax-money bills being considered, a bill for the Federal Reserve Bank, the Budget, and the Public Health Service, are being voted on together.

The one-package bill, which is estimated to cost $1.5 billion, will be voted on by the House of Representatives on Thursday, March 23, and by the Senate on Friday, March 24.

The bill will cover the fiscal year starting July 1 and ending June 30, 1951. So the budget President Truman sent congress last January is for the 1951 fiscal year starting next July.

All the expenses of the various government departments and agencies are listed in detail in the budget.

In the past congress examined these expense items, always announced it would certainly cut them down, and then voted the money in. It was a necessary evil.

But in the past, congress has voted the money in, and then the agencies have had to wait a long time before they got the money.

This time, congress is voting the money in, and then the agencies will get the money immediately.

This could be a big step forward, particularly if congress has promised to cut the budget. The President's estimate of the cost of the budget is $1.5 billion, but the agencies have asked for $2 billion.

To get a little idea of this kind of chaos, congress decided this year it would try to wrap all the money needs of most of the agencies in one bill and then vote on that.

That theory as it stands right now may be all right. And then again, maybe it isn't. For example, in the past, when it approved a number of appropriations bills separately, congress might tack on to a couple of them some ideas which the President didn't like.

That left him free to sign into law the bills he liked and to veto the ones he didn't. But that meant trouble.

The agencies whose appropriations were approved, could start drawing on the money voted them by congress when July 1 arrived, the start of the new fiscal year.

But the story was different for the agencies whose appropriations were vetoed. They had no money when July 1 came unless congress voted them some temporary funds to use while it did one of two things:

1. Went back to work on the vetoed bill and tailored it to please the President, or

2. Repassed the bill, over the veto, thus making it law.

But now, suppose, in the one-package bill, congress has on some principle, which Mr. Truman doesn't like, He'll have to approve the whole bill, or veto the whole bill, ending it back to congress.

Then if congress delays too long in straightening out the difficulty, say beyond July 1 — most of the government agencies will be without money unless congress votes them some temporarily.

But that isn't all. The one-package bill was dumped in the lap of the House yesterday. It's a cliché that a lot of congressmen, during the debate and vote on the bill, will try to whittle down the amount of money listed in the single bill.

So the one-package bill is still a long way from being a proven success. Hold your hats. You'll be hearing plenty about it.

State's Little Hoover Group Plans Program

Revival Now in Progress at Tabernacle

"Do You Know Your Neighbor?" is the subject to be discussed by Evangelist Jay B. Oaks in the "Pre-Easter Youth Emphasis-Revival" now in the third night at the Gospel Tabernacle.

There will be a meeting tonight at seven o'clock of all the "volunteer workers" in the Prayer Room. Some time will be spent in instructions followed by a time of prayer preceding the evening service. There will be an organ prelude preceding the service which begins at 7:30 promptly. The public is welcome at this "Pre-Easter Revival."

Rogge Hopes to Settle Tito, Russian Feud

Stockholm, Sweden, March 21 — (P) — O. John Rogge, former U.S. assistant attorney general, leaves today for Yugoslavia where he said he hopes to aid in a settlement of the bitter feud between Marshal Tito and the Soviet Union.

Rogge said in an interview that he had discussed the Tito-Kremlin conflict with Russians and Yugoslavs in New York, Moscow and Stockholm with a view "to finding out how difficult an approachment would be."

A top policy-maker in Henry Wallace's American Progressive party Rogge went to Moscow with a delegation of the Communist-sponsored "world committee of peace partisans." He has, however, denounced Communist declarations that the United States government wants war. He also told a news conference he thought the Soviet-dominated cominform had behaved "very improperly against the Yugoslavs."

Rogge said his aim in trying to settle the two-year-old fight between the Yugoslav and the Russian Communists was "to help keep the world at peace."

commission in its work was adopted at an organizational meeting here this morning. The plan, as announced by Richard L. Craigie of Hot Springs, chairman:

1. Increased effectiveness of various state organizations;
2. Coordination and consolidation of state governmental functions;
3. Reduction in the number of state organizations;
4. Installation of proper financial and budgetary controls;
5. Improved personnel procedures; and
6. Reduction in the cost of government.

LR Negroes to Stand Behind NAACP Group

Little Rock, March 21 — (P) — Little Rock Negro ministers are opposed to a proposed state organization to compete with the National Association for Advancement of Colored People.

Harold Flowers, Pine Bluff attorney, recently removed as head of the Pine Bluff branch of NAACP, has announced plans for such an organization.

The Little Rock Interdenominational ministers alliance Monday adopted a resolution pledging support to NAACP and declaring, "we look with disfavor upon any group or individual who attempts to destroy the one organization which has done more than any other organization except the Christian church to protect the rights of Negroes x x x."

Palmer Gets Nod in 1950 Masters Meet

Jacksonville, Fla., March 22 — (P) — Here's a tip right from the feed — Johnny Palmer will win the 1950 Masters golf title at Augusta, Ga., next month.

Leading professionals of the game voted the 31-year-old war veteran from Badin, N. C., most likely to take the important tourna ment winding up the winter circuit.

Of course, don't say you weren't warned that Sam Snead is a close second choice just in case the veteran from White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., repeats his '49 Masters victory.

High regard goes to National Open Champion Cary Middlecoff of Ormond Beach, Fla., and Jimmy Demaret of Olaj, Calif. Some votes also went to 27-year-old Jack Burke of White Plains, N. Y., and the Argentinian Champion Roberto De Vicenzo of Buenos Aires, although they will be playing for the first time in Augusta.

Ben Hogan of Hershey, Pa., and Lloyd Mangrum of Chicago got sentimental votes if nothing else. Both are recovering from serious auto accidents. Mangrum has showed he can win the Masters and Hogan makes no secret of the fact he wants to badly.

To round out the voting, a scattered mention or two went to Jim Turnesa and Lew Worsham.

Middlecoff, who knows the exacting Masters course as well as any of the pros, explained that it takes long, accurate drives and good put-

Loyalty Plan Upheld by High Court

Washington, March 22 — (P) — The United States Court of Appeals today upheld the constitutionality of the government's employee loyalty program.

The three-man tribunal ruled that any government worker may be fired by a loyalty board acting under an executive order from President Truman.

The decision was handed down in the case of Dorothy Bailey, a former $8,000-a-year-employee of the federal security agency.

Miss Bailey was suspended from working to conquer it — even more than other layouts.

That may give a hint why his fellow pros pick Palmer to win. He has the right combination of shots though they haven't given him a major victory this year. He stands tenth among many winners, far behind Snead, Burke, Demaret and Middlecoff.

Palmer finished fourth in the Masters a year ago. He won the Chicago event called the world championship, was runner-up to Snead to the PGA and eighth in the National Open. He won more money during 1949 than any other golfer but Snead and Middlecoff.

Acree Allowance to Limit Cotton Picking Contest

Blytheville, March 21 — (P) — Because of 1950 cotton acreage allotments for Mississippi county, entrants in the 11th annual National Cotton picking contest here this year will have only one row to pick instead of the usual two.

Sanford Shelton, chairman of the 1950 contest, said last night that only one-third of the usual contest site acreage will be available this year because of the allotments. This county has a cotton acreage allotment of 47 per cent for 1950.

Shelton told the Blytheville Junior Chamber of Commerce board of directors that only 28 of the usual 80 acres on the contest site will be planted to cotton this year and that the tract's owner has agreed to make 20 acres available for the event. The Jaycees sponsor the contest.

To allow nearly the same number of entrants to compete on the reduced acreage, the Jaycees decided to assign only one row to a picker instead of the usual two.

her job in November, 1949, on grounds her loyalty was questionable. In February 1949, she was dismissed.

She sued for reinstatement to her job, raising among other points, the contention that the whole loyalty program was unconstitutional.

Czechs Boast About Ousting Newsmen

Prague, Czechoslovakia, March 21 (AP) — Minister of Information Václav Kopecky told parliament yesterday Czechoslovakia had ousted Western newspapermen who "carried out anti-state activities under the cloak of their official work."

He said the number of accredited correspondents from capitalist countries have been reduced "while cooperation with the progressive newspapermen have been intensified."

Kopecky's speech, published today in the Czech Communist party's official newspaper Rude Pravo, pointed out that there were 140 accredited newsmen in the country just after the Communist regime seized power in February, 1948.

"However, it became evident," Kopecky said, "that the majority of foreign newspapermen, with the exception of those who represented progressive newspapers, not only ceased to report objectively about events in our republic but devoted themselves exclusively to slandering and incitement campaigns against Czechoslovakia."

Pointing to the government's future aims for the press in Czechoslovakia, Kopecky said: "We must first remove all remnants of decadent, anti-people, bourgeois newspaper work according to the Soviet example; and turn our press into an organization of the working classes."

YOU MAY HAVE PIN-WORMS AND NOT KNOW IT!

Picking, nose-picking and a tormenting rectal itch are often tell-tale signs of Pin-Worms... ugly parasites that medical experts say infect one out of every three persons examined. Entire families may be victims and not know it.

To get rid of Pin-Worms, these pests must not only be killed, but killed in the large intestine where they live and multiply. That's exactly what Jayne's P.W. tablets do... and here's how they do it:

First, a gentle coating covers the inside of the bowels before they move. Then, Jayne's P.W. tablets are passed, in-creased contact to work... kills Pin-Worms quickly and easily.

Don't take chances with this dangerous, highly contagious condition. At the first sign of Pin-Worms, ask your druggist for Jayne's P.W. Vermifuge... the most easy-to-take tablets prescribed by famous Dr. D. Jayne & Son, specialists in worm remedies for over 100 years.

Sen. McCarthy Is Ready for a Battle

Washington, March 21 — (P) — Senator Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis.), a former amateur boxer, is in a scrap that may cost somebody a bloody nose.

Right now it isn't clear whether McCarthy himself or the state department will be hurt most in the ruckus he started with charges that the department is infested with Communists.

The stocky Irishman says he has proof. So far he has produced none. Fellow Republicans have given him little help. Senate Democrats say his charges may boom-arang against him and the G.O.P.

McCarthy admits he may get cut up a bit in the inquiry a senate foreign relations subcommittee is making into his accusations. But he says "somebody is going to know they have been in a fight."

It just isn't in the background of the stocky, 40-year-old Irishman to avoid a battle or back away in the middle of one. His is a background that includes:

Turning from a Democrat into a Republican.

Brilliance in school, shrewdness in politics. He didn't start high school until he was nearly 21, then he finished a four-year course in one year and got on the honor roll, too. At 29, he was the youngest Circuit judge ever elected in Wisconsin.

A bit of income tax trouble. Eighteen months with a marine bomber squadron in the Pacific. He enlisted as a private, came out of the war a captain.

Censure by the Wisconsin State Supreme court. This grew from complaints by the state board of bar commissioners he was guilty of unethical conduct in failing to resign as Circuit judge to run for Mrs. J. W. Browne and Miss Lottie Mae Wallace have returned to their home in Dallas after a visit with Mrs. Browne's sister-in-law, Mrs. John O'Dell and other relatives here.

FINGERPRINTS

Don't Lie

By Rupert Hughes
Copyright 1930 by Rupert Hughes
Dist. by NEA SERVICE, INC.

THE STORY: Although fingerprints found on the telephone used to blackmail Wendell Palmer to death point to Paul Moody as the guilty party, the murdered man's daughter, who is Moody's niece, refuses to believe his guilt. She has hired private detective Martin Queripel to investigate the case. Queripel and Moody's lawyer, Harley Kenyon, interview Moody, the young man says he did not touch the phone when he was in a passing car had waved to Palmer as he left the doorway when he left Moody says.

XXI

MARTIN QUERIPEL considered Harley Kenyon's suggestion to advertise for the woman who could supply evidence that Wendell Palmer was still alive when Paul Moody left his home.

"We can try it," said Queripel, "but in the first place, she might not see the ad. In the second place, she might prefer to keep out of this case."

"I don't know about her not reading it," Kenyon objected. "The reporters would certainly find news in the fact we're advertising for a witness."

"That's true," Queripel said, with a nod, "but if she did not appear, it would tend to weaken Paul's story. Furthermore, all the testimony of all the women in the world wouldn't weigh against those fingerprints on the telephone." Kenyon nodded and Queripel went on:

"Harley, you stay here and make your notes and your plans, and see about bail and habeas corpus and what-have-you. I'll go take a peek at those prints."

Queripel shook hands with Paul and left the jail in a state of extreme conflict between what he wanted to believe and what he could not disbelieve. He was in a mood of the Scriptural prayer: "Lord, I believe, help thou my unbelief." His torment gave the lie to Dryden's cynicism: "With how much ease we believe what we wish."

He was tempted to throw away his principles and his convictions for the sake of his new and fatherly love for Azalea Palmer. In a daze he made his way to his car and drove it to the Crime Laboratory down at 320 West First Street. His mind was chugging on all cylinders, humming:

"Whether Moody is guilty or not guilty, that girl worships him and needs him, and must have him, or all her beautiful life is wrecked. Some murderers go free—some of the best in the world are walking the streets uncaught or unconvicted. Why make an exception of this one sculptor?"

"I told that sweet girl that Benvenuto Cellini was a murderer and liked it. But if they had put Cellini to death, the world would never have had his magnificent 'Perseus with Medusa's Head' or his other works."

INTERTANGLED with these impious thoughts were thoughts of Detective Pete Kelso and the fallibility of fingerprints.

It was a confused and bewildered man who climbed the shabby stairway in the old rookery at 320 West First Street and presented himself to the technicians in the Crime Laboratory.

He felt something like an atheist walking into an old cathedral to tell the priest that their Gospels were all wrong and they might as well abandon their religion.

Naturally Queripel did not tell his hosts that he had come to take a long shot at proving their supposed infallibility a myth.

He merely explained that he had been retained by the defense in the Paul Moody case and would like to follow the evidence against him step by step. He was hospitably received by Ray Pinker, who instructed James Stivers to "give him the works."

Stivers knew Queripel by reputation and knew also that Queripel was well informed on fingerprint methods. Although he was working on another case Stivers was glad to interrupt his task and show the eminent sleuth everything he asked to see.

By apparently casual questioning, Queripel verified all that Azalea had told him but he avoided any mention of Walsola's name.

Stivers definitely identified Paul Moody's fingerprints by showing Queripel first acknowledged prints he had made from Moody's own fingers at the studio, where Moody had made no objection to the ordeal. Indeed, Moody had brazenly welcomed it.

Next, Stivers produced the prints he had found at the studio. They all conformed to the pattern. Finally, he brought forward the eight fingerprints taken from the base of the telephone.

He said with a kind of solemn clation: "These are the prints that will give Moody his whiff of gas."

Queripel shuddered, thinking more of Azalea's grief than of Moody's exit from the world he had hoped to adorn with statues.

Queripel studied the prints with fiercely eager eyes. To his sorrow he could find no least excuse to doubt that they were all the portraits of Moody's talented fingertips.

BUT it was his custom to probe ever deeper and deeper, and he said: "Could I see the telephone base these prints were taken from?"

"Sure," said Stivers. "We cut the instrument loose and brought it in for safekeeping."

He produced the telephone and part of its severed cords, carefully wrapped in cellophane so as to be visible without being touched. He held it while Queripel studied it through a magnifying glass.

Abruptly Queripel winced as if stuck with a knife.

Ruling Made on GI Tuition Fees to College

Washington, March 21 — (P) — The house has voted that land-grant colleges will not have to scale down GI tuition fees because of the special federal aid the schools get from the government.

By a roll call vote of 245 to 101, it passed and sent to the senate yesterday a bill to nullify a veterans' administration order that the colleges deduct land-grant aid in adjusting rates for GI students.

Members who opposed the measure said it amounts to the government making double payments for the schooling of veterans. Under a long standing federal aid program 70-odd land-grant schools receive about $3,000,000 annually for providing public education in agriculture and mechanics.

The veterans' administration said a provision in the bill making its terms retroactive to 1917 would cost $3,000,000 at the start and $2,000,000 for the next fiscal year.

The National Geographic Society says about 1,150,000 Indians lived in North America at the time of Columbus.

Shy Man

Dear Miss Dix: How does a shy man go about finding a wife? I am a widower, 58 years old, but my health is excellent. Fair income. Two children both married and living away from home. Fairly easy to get along with. University graduate. Prefer woman between 45 and 50 years of age. Not younger. You may wonder why I can't find a wife for myself since I have been married, but I didn't find her. She found me. Besides, the eligible "women of my acquaintance were also acquaintances of my wife and somehow I can't think of any one of them filling her place.

And at the moment you can get an argument either way as to whether his charges of Red infiltration of the state department are helping or harming the country.

Just yesterday, for instance, McCarthy won the Marine Corps League's national Americanism award for 1930 for "rousing the nation to the menace of bad security risks in our government."

Philip C. Jessup, U.S. ambassador-at-large, said the senator has displayed "shocking disregard for the interests of our country."

Jessup said that in the present state of international relations it is of utmost gravity when an American envoy is "held up before the eyes of the rest of the world as a liar and traitor."

McCarthy has accused Jessup of having an affinity for Communist causes. Jessup denied any Communist connections or sympathies. He said McCarthy has hurt U.S. foreign policy in the conflict with world communism.

Answer: Apparently your husband is the inclination of all the faults a husband can have and then some, and wonder that you love him still. However, since you do, and since there is no chance ever of reforming a man who doesn't know that he is breaking your heart and probably considers himself a prize matrimonial package, why don't you reform yourself?

For I suspect that you are one of these women who enjoy being neglected wives, and that most of your troubles are imaginary ones. Even from your letter I judge that your husband isn't the brute that you imagine him to be. He is just the ordinary mill-run of sentimental husbands who doesn't see why he should go on every day telling you that he loves you and that you are the most marvelous woman in the world when he spends his life giving a living example of his feelings toward you.

So my advice to you is first to stop pitying yourself. Just think how lucky you are to have a good home and a man to support you.

If your husband doesn't kiss you and you pine for kisses take the initiative and do the kissing yourself. But don't make the mistake of thinking that because a man is not demonstrative he is lacking of affection. Lots of people just don't know how to publicize their emotions.

And quit crying. Use your tear ducts less and your funnybone more and see if you can't establish a better relationship with your husband. For you must be making him as unhappy as he is making you. That is the solution of your problem. Not packing up and leaving.

Dear Dorothy Dix: A few years ago I was quite prosperous, but my business failed and now have been brought to poverty. I have a daughter who is comfortably married and has considerable earnings aside from her husband's salary. I spent many thousands of dollars on my daughter's musical education, out of which she now makes a good income. She has that is best in life, whereas I am going about in rags unable to make a living. In your opinion should this daughter assist me at this time out of her separate earnings?

R. J. B.
Answer: I not only think it is her duty, but that she should regard it a privilege that she should be able to repay some of your kindness to her, and she is an ingrate and lacking in all natural feeling if she does not do so.

John Jacob Astor made his fortune on beaver skins.

Dear Miss Dix: What would you do if you were married to a man different and blind to everything, as I am? He never kisses me. He never smiles at me. If I look pretty, he doesn't see it. If I am ugly, he never sympathizes with me. If I am blue, he never cheers me. If I am tired, he never appreciates what I have done. If I cook nice meals, he eats them in silence. If I cry myself to sleep, he scorns me. If I spend money, he doesn't care. If I save money, he doesn't mention it. But I am crazy about him. I never expect to be happy. What must I do? Must I carry on and spend the balance of my days in heart-hunger and tears, or must I go off and forget it all? I can support myself.

So I think you cannot do better than let some sensible widow or old maid who was your wife's friend, marry you.

'Panty Snapping' Teacher May Face Charges
 Bristow, Okla., March 21 —(AP)—A grand jury will be called April 3 as a result of charges that a country school teacher snapped the elastic of girl pupils' panties.

District Judge W. A. Lackey ordered the county grand jury yesterday after receiving a petition bearing 180 names. It asked an inquiry into "the official acts of Jimmy Whiteley, county attorney, and other violations of the law."

The petition was circulated by friends of W. E. Dickey, 53, the teacher whom Whiteley has charged in both misdemeanor and felony complaints with lewdly pawing the bodies of girls at the two-room Cuthbert school near here.

Dickey is continuing to teach, free on $3,000 bond. He has pleaded innocent to the charges.

Bristow's school board, claiming its investigation of complaints against Dickey disclosed no wrongdoing, has refused to remove him from his job.

Whitely said he would be "more than happy" to show the grand jury every act, "official or not, that I have done since I was appointed to this office."
